31th October - 5th November

Maribor, Slovenia

Information about the project

Mobility of youth workers (21+) - Training Course - Innovative youth inclusion with creative industries will take a place in Maribor (Slovenia) on the dates 31th October to 5th November 2019. Hiša! prepared the project in a wish to bring some new quality among the organizations who are involved with capacity building, participation, integration ... through creative industries. Together we will share good practices, new approaches, discussing the previous problems, changes and the challenges within youth empowerment through creative industries. The activity is connected to researching sphere and will train youth workers/facilitators/actors/coordinators coming from organizations experienced in creative industries or willing to start their ventures in this field.

The training aims to investigate and broaden the youth empowerment to include more youth with fewer opportunities in to Erasmus plus projects, increasing the amount of high-quality execution and establishing partnerships, exchange of good practices and experiences related to E+ projects, volunteering, generating new project ideas, developing joint solutions, share the obstacles and doubts in the implementation of international projects in transcultural environment and increase the level of information about the methods of non-formal education.

This project aims to recognize and improve youth work, non-formal learning and volunteering and link them to education systems and the labour market. It also supports regional and transnational non-formal learning mobility schemes to encourage the participation of youth in society.

By participating in the project, participants will be able to strengthen the capacity of their organizations, to internationalize their activities and to implement international projects with greater efficiency and effectiveness. For the purpose of promotion and dissemination they will create attractive flipbook, which will become an educational tool after the activity in each organisation/community.
